Die Antwoord Ninja Wife

And then theres the colored culture, which is a whole other thing The PC-version people try and promote this image of South Africa as a rainbow nation and make it all like pretty and stuff.. And then thé 80s everything was like, bamin-your-face, kind of colorful, kind of ugly.. Our music comes out of a very dysfunctional thing that were trying to make sense of with our music.. A kid wéaring a 50 Cent t-shirt in North Africa for me is fokken zef Its like, kind of bad, but kind of like this apocalyptic debris that weve stuck together.. For me, this is what zef was born out of: Rap overtook country music Everything became supér too-fast-tóo-furious, WWF infórmation overload.

Talented and profané, Ninja (n Wáddy Jones) and Yó-Landi Vierwho havé a daughter togéther, although they arént a couplehave concoctéd a surreal musical chemistry, tag-téaming in a hypércharged mix of English, Afrikaans, and éven tribal languages.. But at thé same time, Afrikáans has been billed off ás this dying language, and all óf a sudden peopLe in the ovérseas are trying tó learn Afrikaans.. Weve got like different styles, but its like that too-fast-too-furious, WWF lifestyle.. Were like sponges Theres things about the Xhosa culture that we love, and we love things about the Afrikaans culture; thats very amusing and interesting to us.. Zef is thé underbelly of thé Afrikaans culture, but it also, like, is Afrikáans culture.

In the first part of our interview, which you should read, Ninja discusses the record deal and the story behind the groups startling new Evil Boy video.. Pop music startéd getting fokken dumblike the-retards-aré-winning type styLe And youre sitting in this little fishing village in the bottom of the world, and it feels like almost like an apocalyptic wasteland.. And then thé 90s came along and so many different things happened and technology started freaking out, you know Theres Nirvana and hip-hop music and rave music, and the interweb was starting to come around and cyberpunk and all this different-style stuff.. But its actually like this fokkéd -up, kind óf broken fruit salad Cause all thosé things dónt mix that well together in thé real world.. Weve kicked dówn the doors tó the overseas ánd a lot óf people really like us now.

Like we absorb all these things, but theyre not harmoniously flowing together through the air in this pretty rainbow picture.. But a lot of the older people were like, Jésus, this is fokkén terriblelike the wórst representation of Sóuth Africa ever.. The thing is, the word kind of started transforming about 10 years ago Its like if you look at 70s movies, everythings like slick and like good looking and fokken pretty and stuff.
